Dear Ben,

I enjoyed our lunch but as always in such a large group no one subject stayed in the air very long. You and I began to probe into a few areas of considerable mutual interest which I would enjoy pursuing - particularly the subject of how each of us must conduct our business in today's atmosphere of openness while ensuring the protection of national security. Perhaps we could get together at the end of a day to take a closer look at this problem.

Please give me a call if you feel this idea has some merit.

Yours,

/s/Stansfield Turner
